ICEBREAKER

SLIDE 4 - 6

KNOWING ME – KNOWING YOU

THIS IS HOW YOU BREAK THE ICE TODAY!

Knowing Me, Knowing You is a fun, half-hour icebreaker in which participants try to discover things they have in common with the other players. This entertaining activity helps people who don't know each other well yet to connect and helps break the ice.

The activity begins with a short warm-up exercise to divide participants into groups. Players then spend three rounds trying to find as many professional and personal similarities with other participants as possible to earn the most points for their team. At specific intervals, players return to their groups, points are tallied, and new goals are assigned.

Until the very end, players are busy finding connections and commonalities with the other participants. The competitive structure and unique game matrix ensure sustained energy, fun, and high motivation.

HAKA

THERE'S A MAORI WARRIOR IN EVERYONE!

New Zealand's Māori warriors call their imposing war dance the haka - a unified display of strength and skill that intimidates even the most fearless opponents. The courage of the individual and the power of the community are particularly emphasized. The purpose of the dance is to gather one's thoughts, draw courage from the group, stand strong, and find balance in strength.

Led by our energetic facilitators, your group will first be introduced to the background and origins of the haka. Participants will then warm up physically and vocally before our coach teaches the individual steps one by one. Larger groups can be divided into several teams to create a competitive haka experience.

Which team is the loudest? Which team has the most passion?

ROCK - PAPER - SCISSORS

THERE CAN ONLY BE ONE WINNER!

It's hard to believe, but there are even official world championships for this game. And now we're going to crown the company champion in "Rock, Paper, Scissors."

Here's how it works: The team splits into pairs and plays a round of "Rock, Paper, Scissors" against each other. Only the player who has won at least twice may advance as the winner.

The catch: According to the rules, whoever loses becomes the winner's biggest fan. They stand behind them and cheer them on loudly.

The two colleagues who are left in the end play a best-of-five match against each other - with their respective fan groups cheering them on from behind. Of course, this takes place on the big stage in the spotlight. It usually gets pretty loud and quite funny.

You couldn't possibly start the conference with more energy and team spirit!

ESCAPE GAMES

SLIDE 8 - 10

TEAM TAKE OFF

PERSONALIZED - UNIQUE - COMMUNICATIVE

In Team Take Off, participants are divided into groups that work together to stop a countdown within 90 minutes.

At first, they appear to be competing against one another, but they quickly realize that only through collaboration, communication, and the exchange of information can they enter the correct cancellation code and achieve their goal. The event begins with a promotional video and culminates in a collaborative solution under time pressure.

At the same time, the event can be flexibly adapted to your key goals, corporate values, and event formats, whether it's an onboarding session, workshop, kick-off, or summer party.

Elements such as flight tickets, the opening and closing videos, and the final runway can be individually designed and branded, creating a personalized experience that begins at check-in and culminates in an emotional finale.

BEAT THE BOX

A RACE AGAINST TIME!

In Beat the Box, teams compete against each other and take on a thrilling challenge: Within 90 minutes, they must solve tricky puzzles, piece together clues, and decipher the secret cancellation code to stop the countdown at the last second.

The twist: While participants initially assume they are competing against each other at the start of this mobile escape game, they realize over the course of the event that cooperation with the other teams is essential to achieving the goal.

Locked aluminum boxes with mysterious contents serve as tools, providing clues. Logical thinking, creativity, and “thinking outside the box” are essential, as there are hardly any instructions. Participants must independently develop new solutions, think outside the box, and actively collaborate with other teams.

“Escape the Hotel” combines a real-world setting with virtual elements: Using iPads, you'll scan QR codes to access videos, photos, and other clues related to the case. At the same time, you'll take action on-site, such as speaking with hotel staff or opening a locked safe. Upon request, suspects can also be portrayed by actors.

In teams of three to five people, you'll move through the hotel and gradually piece together all the clues to solve the murder case.

BOULE

EVERY THROW COUNTS!

Boule, also known as pétanque, is a social game of precision from France that is usually played outdoors on gravel or sand courts. The objective of the game is to throw your metal balls as close as possible to a small target ball, known as the “jack” (French: cochonnet).

The game is played individually, in doubles, or in teams. Players take turns throwing their balls, attempting either to get closer to the target than their opponent or to skillfully knock their opponent’s balls away. Each round ends when all balls have been played. Points are awarded only to the team whose balls are closest to the target.

Boule is characterized by a combination of skill, tactics, and concentration, yet it is also easy to learn and therefore suitable for players of all ages.

CHAIN REACTION

AN EVENT THAT BRINGS PEOPLE TOGETHER!

In the Chain Reaction challenge, all teams work together toward a single goal: to build a continuous chain reaction that runs as long as possible without interruption and, ideally, ends with a spectacular finale. Based on a rough blueprint, each team develops its own reaction and decides for itself how to use materials and design the transitions to the next team.

A wide variety of materials are used, and in addition to creativity, coordination, communication, and teamwork are essential. The teams independently design their solutions, ranging from mechanical constructions to experimental effects. Finally, these are combined into a single, collaborative work of art that is presented by everyone at the end.

BIG PICTURE

CREATIVITY TO TAKE AWAY

At Big Picture, participants step away from their daily work routines and collaborate to create a large-scale artwork that visually represents corporate values or goals. A custom template is developed in advance and divided into individual canvases. During the event, teams design these canvases without knowing the complete overall picture.

In addition to creativity, communication and coordination are essential to ensure that colors and transitions between the individual sections fit together perfectly. Only through collaboration can a harmonious final piece be created.

In the grand finale, all canvases are joined together and the finished artwork is unveiled. This emotional moment makes it clear that the result is far more than the sum of its parts and leaves a lasting impression on the participants.

HELPING HANDS

TEAMWORK FOR A GOOD CAUSE!

At Helping Hands, teams of three to five people work together to assemble functional prosthetic hands from about 30 individual parts. Communication, mutual support, and genuine teamwork are crucial, as many assembly steps can only be completed together.

A particular challenge: All participants deliberately work with only one hand to gain a better understanding of the situation faced by the future recipients. This not only results in a functional product but also fosters a strong sense of community and new perspectives.

After assembly, the prostheses are individually packaged - including a team photo, signatures, and, optionally, a personal letter for the recipients. Despite the emotional nature of the task, Helping Hands fosters extensive communication, team cohesion, and a transformative team experience.

FOOTBALL TABLE CONSTRUCTION

BUILD FIRST, PLAY FOOTBALL, THEN DONATE!

When building a football table, the focus is on creativity, team spirit, and active collaboration among participants - because nothing works without teamwork!

First, the kit is checked for completeness and the individual parts are organized. Even at this early stage, it becomes clear who sets the tone in the team, who keeps track of everything, or who is the master of creative chaos. Once the necessary tools have been gathered, it's time to start screwing and hammering.

Whether the work was done carefully becomes clear at the latest during the tournament, when the foosball table is tried out for the first time.

At the end of the activity, participants need only take a look at their handiwork to realize what can be achieved through teamwork. The foosball tables will adorn the facilities of children's and youth centers in the future and bring great joy!

BUILDING AN INSECT HOTEL

INSPIRE WITH SUSTAINABILITY!

Building insect hotels fosters team spirit in a sustainable way. Constructing an insect hotel together requires cooperation and creativity, as all team members must work together to select materials and design habitats for different insect species. Each team builds its own insect hotel. These can then be placed in various locations. Alternatively, the individual teams' insect hotels can be combined using a modular design to form one or more large hotels.

This team event not only strengthens team cohesion but also raises awareness of ecological responsibility and the value of biodiversity. It helps foster environmentally conscious cooperation and makes a valuable contribution to nature conservation - a positive signal for social engagement in the area of corporate social responsibility.

PURE WATER PROJECT

WATER BACKPACKS FOR A GOOD CAUSE!

The Pure Water Project focuses not only on teamwork but, above all, on raising awareness of water scarcity. Following an introductory presentation on the global impact of the problem, participants work in small groups to assemble water backpacks equipped with built-in filtration systems. This process requires cooperation, coordination, and collaborative decision-making to produce a functional result.

The backpacks are distributed in areas where water scarcity defines daily life and where daily trips to unsafe water sources are a reality. On-site, dedicated teams work with village communities to ensure that the water backpacks reach the people who need them most. This allows local families to access clean water immediately - without having to travel long distances or rely on dangerous sources.

SOLAR BUDDY

SOLAR LIGHTS TO COMBAT ENERGY POVERTY!

At the SolarBuddy event, participants work in teams of two to build fully functional solar lamps. By dividing tasks, supporting one another, and working closely together, they create a finished product step by step, while simultaneously strengthening team cohesion. Every action contributes to creating a meaningful result that has an impact long after the event is over.

After construction and testing, the lamps are collected and carefully packaged before being shipped to remote regions of the world. There, they are distributed through partner organizations to children in communities without reliable access to electricity, offering a safe alternative to dangerous light sources.
